Dear Parents and Carers

Thank you for your support today, the children have settled well and I am told that today has felt very much like a normal day at St Chad's! I am very much looking forward to seeing them all in the morning.

We are very excited to announce our new reward system. This has been shared with the children today and hopefully they can tell you all about it! We now have these three school rules. We have spoken to the children about what these rules mean and shared examples with them. Staff felt that having 3 simple rules to remember would make life easier for everyone. These rules apply to all members of our school community, including the grown ups!

Children will be rewarded with merit points for following our school rules. These build up to a range of certificates that children work towards achieving throughout the school year.

Children who do not follow the school rules will have sanctions issued. Our updated behaviour policy is available on our website for you to read through.

The start of a new school year, albeit a strange start, seemed like the sensible time to begin with a new system.

We are all very much looking forward to our school family being together again, here's to a year full of learning and happy times.

With best wishes

P. Strachan
